Strategic Foresight and Innovation : Megatrends that reshape our World

Ministry of Education Scheme of Global Initiative of Academic Networks (GIAN)

1. Overview

Abraham Lincoln once said: “The best way to predict the future is to create it”. Strategic Foresight and Innovation course teaches companies to predict the future, prepare for it and create new products, services and business models that would harness political, economic, social and technological mega tendencies that reshape our world. Participants will learn how to contemplate new tendencies in corporate strategies and how to prepare for various possible scenarios in future.

Upon course completion, participants will be able to use Strategic Foresight as a tool to identify business opportunities through the creation and analysis of future scenarios both for industries and organizations. In addition, course explores the major trends that already reshape or have a potential to reshape our future, such as Open Innovation, Autonomous Vehicles, Augmented Intelligence, Robotics, Augmented and Virtual Reality, Artificial Intelligence, Digital Printing, Crowd sourcing and many more.
