Dear Colleagues,

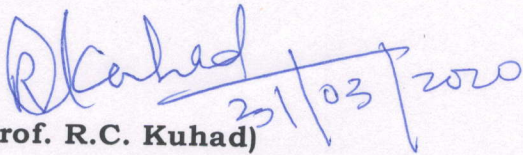

I hope you are fine at your place and are observing all the precautionary measures to preempt any risk of Corona infection to you or your family. These are the testing days for us and we are expected to demonstrate the innovative ways and ability to overcome the humanitarian crisis while maintaining connect with the students for constant academic guidance and personal counselling so that the lockdown and discontinuation of classes don't have any adverse effect on their studies.

Ministry of Human Resource Development and University Grants Commission have also been insisting upon optimum use of e-learning resources to bridge the physical gap between teachers and students during the spell of the lockdown. Today also, the University has received a communication from the ministry to ensure that all the teachers are seriously engaged in teaching/guiding the students through digital platforms.

Therefore, I advise the teachers to make all out efforts in the direction of creation, development and dissemination of e-learning resources to the students so as to engage them in academic activities. Responding to the need of the hour, the University has provided the link of all relevant databases and digital learning platforms on the University website. Your proactive participation shall not only help the students complete the syllabus but shall also de-stress them at the moment of immeasurable human crisis.

For more details, you may refer to the guidelines of the University Grants Commission vide letter no. 1-14/2020 (website) dated 25.03.2020 circulated to you by the Registrar.

Yours
